

poems / A bloom of love

In a friendship's bloom, a love arose,
A bond so strong, where heartache goes.
A best friend's soul, a trusted guide,
Through laughter and tears, side by side.

Shared secrets whispered in the night,
A knowing glance, a love's delight.
Unraveling dreams and hopes untold,
In each other's hearts, a love unfolds.

From simple gestures to laughter's embrace,
In this cherished friendship, love finds its place.
The world seems brighter, colors anew,
As love's sweet essence binds the two.

Yet, hesitation lingers, unsure hearts,
Afraid to risk what friendship imparts.
But courage prevails, and truth does reveal,
A love that's genuine, intense, and real.

Through ups and downs, together they stand,
In love and friendship, hand in hand.
For love's truest form can often transcend,
From best friends to soulmates, a journey they'll mend. #poem
