

poems / So close yet so far

Amid screens' allure, they seek connection,
Through apps and swipes, a digital affection.
Yet just outside, in streets so near,
Souls seek love's solace, whispers to hear.

In passing glances, hearts in sync,
Unseen connections, a chance to link.
If only they'd dare, their fears outgrow,
A simple "hello," love's seed would sow.

In virtual realms, they roam and roam,
While love awaits, close to home.
Let's break the spell, embrace the real,
In streets, not screens, our hearts reveal.
