

poems / True Friends

Your smile kindles mine,
Your words breathe life into my dreams.
Together we rise, unbound,
Elevated by each other's beams.

The path forward shines brighter
With your compassionate light,
Guiding me to be better,
Empowering me to take flight.

In your embrace I find solace,
A sanctuary where I can be
My truest self, ever-growing,
Blossoming in your company.

Over wine and well-aged steak,
We toast to the present we make -
A tapestry woven with care,
Uplifting souls we share.
